Decided Today

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Prohibition forces maintained control of the House today when they defeated a motion to consider the Beck-Linthicum "home rule" resolution submitting the question of repeal of the 18th amendment to the states in the spirit of a referendum.

The wets mustered 187 votes—by far the greatest strength they have shown since prohibition—but 228 voted against bringing the amendment to the floor for a record vote.

HOPES SHATTERED
The vote shattered the hope of anti-prohibitionists for any favorable action in the present session looking to repeal of the prohibition amendment.

The vote which came after but twenty minutes of debate was made possible under the "anti-gang" rules of the house which permitted 145 members to bring to a vote the question of whether the resolution would be considered.

HOUSE TENSE
A tense house listened to the roll call in the first test on prohibition since the amendment was adopted twelve years ago. Jubilant drys let loose cheers and applause as the vote was announced.

The vote carried with it the political fortune of many members who have been "on the fence" on the prohibition question. Both wet and dry organizations have served notice that their attitude in the next campaign will be based upon the vote of members today.

BILL'S PROVISORS
The Beck-Linthicum resolution, adopted by the Republican and Democratic "wet bloc" of the house, provided:

1. Repeal of the eighteenth amendment by the substitution of a revised amendment.
2. Gives "home rule" to states by permitting them to decide whether or not they want legalized liquor traffic.

3. Provides the revised amendment shall be considered in state constitutional conventions, thus making possible a referendum in the election of delegates to those conventions.

4. Protects the dry states by prohibiting congress to prohibit shipment of liquor into them.

Rep. Beebe (R.) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican "wet bloc" and Rep. Linthicum (D.) of Maryland, chairman of the Democratic "wet bloc," are joint authors of the proposed amendment.

ICE FATAL TO OHIOANS

Several Children Fall Through
Into Frigid Waters Over Weekend.

By International News Service
Treacherous ice which proved tempting to skaters and dangerous to autoists was responsible for an increase in Ohio fatalities for the week-end, a checkup by International News Service disclosed.

Despite the freezing weather, the ice on a Lima lake was not solid enough for skating and three youths were drowned. Skidding and careening automobiles brought injury and death on the ice-bound highways and streets. Murder and suicide were given as the causes of other fatalities.

The triple tragedy at McCullough Park Lake in Lima followed a save a companion who had fallen through the ice. The victims were Ernest Line, 12, his brother, Clarence, 10, and Junior Woods, 9. Ernest and young Woods fell into the freezing water while trying to save Clarence.

The Woods boy was a brother of Thelma Woods, who with Earl Truesdale, her sweetheart, were victims of Lima's sensational "quarry murder" last Memorial Day. The case is unsolved.

COLUMBUS, O., March 14.—With little clothing and less money, 40 girls and men in "Art Models," a burlesque troupe, were stranded here after nearly all their personal belongings were lost in a $110,000 fire that destroyed the Lyceum theater.

Jay McGee of Chicago, producer of the show, sought assistance for the cast, declaring nearly all their worldly possessions were burned. The costumes of Irene Smith, a member of the troupe, were saved when Fred Moller, another of the players, ran into a dressing room despite the flames, but others of the chorus were not as fortunate.

A collection of play manuscripts gathered over a period of 20 years and described by McGee as "priceless" also was destroyed.

Five firemen were overcome or slightly injured in fighting the blaze which destroyed a theatrical landmark that stood since 1892. Four hundred guests in the Chitenden and Rol-Eddy hotels were aroused from their sleep when the fire threatened to spread.

Mell G. Underwood of New Lexington, the 11th district's representative in U. S. Congress, was to cast his ballot today against prohibition in the so-called "showdown" vote in the House to force resubmission to the state of a repealer of the 18th amendment. Underwood made this statement to newspapermen while visiting in Chillicothe the latter part of last week.

"I believe the people, not congress, should settle all major controversial questions, including prohibition."

FOR THE PEOPLE
"I am a Democrat and I believe in democratic rule. I voted for the discharge bill, by which one-third of the membership of the House can prevent the pigeon-holing of measures in committee. I am only being consistent when I vote Monday to discharge the judiciary committee from consideration of the Beck-Linthicum repeal amendment, that is to force the bill out of a pigeon-hole onto the floor of the House."

As to his course in case the repealer is forced out of committee and comes before the House, the congressman said:

TO MEET ISSUE
"I will meet the issue when it comes but my vote will depend on the final form the bill takes." He explained that he could not pledge himself to support a measure that might be horribly mutilated by the time it is put to a vote.

Washington observers doubt that the necessary votes will be mustered Monday to get the question before the House, but the voting will be watched keenly, as it will furnish an excellent show down on who's who in the wet-dry fight.

GERMANY CRUSHES FASCISM'S POWER

BETTMAN RAPS U. S. DRY LAWS

Attorney General, Candidate

'Historic Mistake.'

COLUMBUS, O., March 14.—Drys of Ohio prepared today to fire back at Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, Republican, senatorial candidate, who last night issued a scorching indictment against prohibition.

Bettman having opened the wet and dry fight for the senate seat now occupied by U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley, wet Democrat of Cleveland, Superintendent S. P. McNaught of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League indicated that the drys will continue it.

REPLY EXPECTED
An almost immediate reply was expected from Louis J. Tabor of Columbus, master of the national Grange, who will seek the Republican nomination on a dry plank.

Declaring prohibition "is not the way of temperance," that it "is a mistake historically," and that it "produces a vicious spiral with the bootlegger at the top and the taxpayer at the bottom," Bettman urged that states be allowed to determine their stand on liquor by "self-determination."

"This modification of the 18th amendment also should include a clear grant to Congress of power to control interstate shipments so as to aid those states to be dry which so vote. This plan will give a security to dry states never before tried out," his statement added.

Bettman also said he stands against "overcentralization of government in Washington," declaring "we have too many boards and commissions."

GRASP AT CLUES

Sandusky Angle Being Investigated Today

BY DAVID P. SENTNER.

NEW YORK, March 14.—The 13-day mystery web of the baby Lindbergh kidnaping today extended its gossamer threads into Ohio, Denver, Detroit and Germany.

Authorities still virtually handcuffed to a blank wall of clues grasped eagerly at these slender lines of information which promised potential results.

FOLLOW CLUES
They were:

1.—A member of the Detroit "Purple Gang" was reported from Sandusky, O., to have supplied "an important and hot tip" which was being checked by Ohio investigators.

2.—The activities of a "suspicious gang from Denver, Colo.," who "came to New York from the west via plane" were being run down.

3.—A report was awaited from the captain of the liner City of Baltimore due today in Hamburg, Germany, following word that child resembling the Lindbergh infant had been delivered to a stewardess when the vessel sailed here the day after the kidnaping.

GANGDOM ACTS
The possible connection of the "Purple Gang" in the case was further supported by reports that representatives of Salvatore Spitalale and Irving Bitz, the two underworld ambassadors, were on a secret trip to Michigan.

Spitalale and Bitz, officially appointed by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to conduct negotiations with gangdom for the return of their child, announced that they intended to follow an important "lead" in Detroit.

TRENTON, N. J., March 14.—A bleak dawn today found the opening of the 13th day of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping mystery little further advanced toward a definite solution than it was when news of it first flashed around the world.

All the intense efforts of police, underworld "go-betweens," private citizens and the frantic attempts of the parents, Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, to find a trace of the infant kidnaped from his crib in its Hopewell, N. J., home March 1 apparently all had failed.

OFFICIALS MEET
A conference of police officials, believed to have been summoned by the famous aviator, was held in the Lindbergh home last night.

Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police, intimated new plans for prosecuting the quest for the recovery of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr., were mapped out. He refused to give details, however.

It was understood those taking part in the discussion of fresh means to prosecute the hunt for the abductors included Major Charles Schoeffel, Schwarzkopf's assistant, Sergeant James Flinn, confidential agent of Police Commissioner Mulrooney, New York, inspector Harry Walsh, Jersey City, and Col. Henry Breckenridge, counsel and adviser to Lindbergh.

Schwarzkopf refused to say at the end of the conference whether any one or several definite persons were under suspicion.

NO SUSPICIONS
"It is impossible to answer at this time as to whether there is any person or persons under suspicion," he said.

GERMANY CRUSHES FASCISM'S POWER

BERLIN, March 14.—Monarchism in Germany is dead forever. Von Hindenburg and Republicanism remain.

This was the interpretation placed today on the verdict of the German people in Sunday's elections, in which President Paul von Hindenburg overwhelmingly defeated Adolf Hitler and at least temporarily crushed the rising tide of Fascism in Germany.

HOLD COUNTY CAR

Lancaster police notified local authorities that an automobile bearing Pickaway-co license H-2697 was abandoned by several youths in that city at 2:45 a. m. Sunday when they were allegedly caught in the act of stealing gasoline.

The incident was being investigated at Lancaster.

CHICKENS STOLEN

Jacob Reiser reported theft of eight chickens from his residence to the police department Saturday.

Eaglet in Chicago?

One of the famous sleuths who conferred at New Jersey on the Lindbergh kidnapping case, Lieut. William Cusack, of the Chicago Detective Bureau, is convinced that the stolen baby is held by Chicago men and women. It is reported that Al Capone, notorious gang czar, now in durance, offered to find the baby in exchange for a Presidential pardon.

BETTMAN RAPS U. S. DRY LAWS

Attorney General, Candidate
For Senate, Terms Law
'Historic Mistake.'

COLUMBUS, O., March 14.—Drys of Ohio prepared today to fire back at Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, Republican senatorial candidate, who last night issued a scorching indictment against prohibition.

Bettman having opened the wet and dry fight for the senate seat now occupied by U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley, wet Democrat of Cleveland, Superintendent S. P. McNaught of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League indicated that the drys will continue it.

An almost immediate reply was expected from Louis J. Tabor of Columbus, master of the national Grange, who will seek the Republican nomination on a dry plank.

Declaring prohibition "is not the way of temperance," that it "is governmentally unsound," and that it "produces a vicious spiral with the bootlegger at the top and the taxpayer at the bottom," Bettman urged that states be allowed to determine their stand on liquor by "self-determination."

"This modification of the 18th amendment also should include a clear grant to Congress of power to control interstate shipments so as to aid those states to be dry which so vote. This plan will give a security to dry states never before tried out," his statement added.

Bettman also said he stands against "overcentralization of government in Washington," declaring "we have too many boards and commissions."

25 YEARS' TERM FACES KIDNAPER

ST. LOUIS, March 14.—For complicity in the kidnapping of Alexander Berg, wealthy fur dealer, Edward Barcume today faced a prison term of 25 years.

He was found guilty by a jury yesterday and the 25-year term was attached to the verdict. Conviction of Barcume, a former convict, was the second since the seizure of five men accused of engineering the kidnapping last November.

Berg was held for $50,000 ransom and released on a promise to pay, according to police.

BOY, ON PROBATION, RETURNED TO JAIL

Delvia Walsh, 19, put on probation by Judge J. W. Adkins when he pleaded guilty to helping steal an automobile, was lodged in the Pickaway-co jail on a charge of violating his probation.

He was arrested the second time for taking an automobile in Chillicothe.

THREE CLUES FOLLOWED BY POLICE TODAY

Ohio, Denver, Detroit,
Hamburg, Germany
Checked in Case

GRASP AT CLUES

Sandusky Angle Being In-
vestigated Today

BY DAVID F. SENTNER.

NEW YORK, March 14.—The 13-day mystery web of the baby Lindbergh kidnapping today extended its gossamer threads into Ohio, Denver, Detroit and Germany.

Authorities still virtually handcuffed to a blank wall of clues grasped eagerly at these slender lines of information which promised potential results.

FOLLOW CLUES

They were:
1.—A member of the Detroit "Purple Gang" was reported from Sandusky, O., to have supplied "an important and hot tip" which was being checked by Ohio investigators.

2.—The activities of a "suspicious gang from Denver, Colo." who "came to New York from the west via plane" were being run down.

3.—A report was awaited from the captain of the liner City of Baltimore due today in Hamburg, Germany, following word that a child resembling the Lindbergh infant had been delivered to a stewardess when the vessel sailed here the day after the kidnapping.

GANGDOM ACTS

The possible connection of the "Purple Gang" in the case was further supported by reports that representatives of Salvatore Spitalone and Irving Bitz, the two underworld ambassadors, were on a secret trip to Michigan.

Spitalone and Bitz, officially appointed by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to conduct negotiations with gangdom for the return of their child announced that they intended to follow an important "lead" in Detroit.

TRENTON, N. J., March 14.—A bleak dawn today found the opening of the 13th day of the Lindbergh baby kidnapping mystery little further advanced toward a definite solution than it was when news of it first flashed around the world.

All the intense efforts of police, underworld "go-betweens" private citizens and the frantic attempts of the parents, Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, to find a trace of the infant kidnapped from his crib in its Hopewell, N. J., home March 1 apparently all had failed.

OFFICIALS MEET

A conference of police officials, believed to have been summoned by the famous aviator, was held in the Lindbergh home last night.

Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police, intimated new plans for prosecuting the quest for the recovery of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr., were mapped out. He refused to give details, however.

It was understood those taking part in the discussion of fresh means to prosecute the hunt for the abductors included Major Charles Schoeffel, Schwarzkopf's assistant, Sergeant James Finn, confidential agent of Police Commissioner Mulrooney, New York, inspector Harry Walsh, Jersey City, and Col. Henry Breckenridge, counsel and adviser to Lindbergh.

Schwarzkopf refused to say at the end of the conference whether any one or several definite persons were under suspicion.

NO SUSPICIONS

"It is impossible to answer at this time as to whether there is any person or persons under suspicion."

State Tourney Starts Friday

By International News Service.
Fame and glory, the reward of many weeks of strenuous work, today smiled upon 16 high school basketball teams, which by the thrilling play have won the right to participate in the state tournament in Columbus on Friday and Saturday.

The Thorny path of the championship trail threw approximately 2,000 teams by the wayside in county, sectional, and district eliminations. Only the strength of the field survives but they also are confronted by mammoth obstacles before the pinnacle upon which the state crown rests can be reached.

SEVERAL UPSETS
Despite several upsets, early season predictions materialized in victories by North of Columbus, West of Akron and Stivers of Dayton in the class "A" group. But their apparent strength has not overshadowed the prowess of Pomeroy, Zanesville, Defiance, Ashland and Akron East, the other survivors.

The activities of the class "B" schools were more startling, and when the smoke cleared Ostrander, Sugar Creek, Stewart, Rossford, Castalia, Margaretta, Dayton Fairmont, Garrettsville, and North Canton were undefeated.

The tournament has been divided into four sections, two on Friday and two Saturday. The opening games will sound at 1 p. m. Friday and the second session will be ushered in at 6:30. Semi-finals will be started at 1 p. m. Saturday with the finals occurring at 7:30 p. m.

Eastern Leaders To Play Tie

NEW YORK, March 14.—Officials of the Eastern Intercollegiate basketball league today will announce the site of the play off between Columbia and Princeton, which wound up the regular schedule Saturday night tied for first place with eight victories and two defeats apiece. Both Columbia's defeats were inflicted by Princeton.

Columbia, which holds the title play-off here, while Princeton favors Philadelphia.

Dave Jones, Columbia guard, captured individual scoring honors by making twelve points against Cornell Saturday night. His season's total was 29 points, six more than his nearest rival, Earl Nikkel of Yale.

Bevo To Sign

HOUSTON, Tex., March 14.—De Witt Lebourveau, veteran slugging outfielder purchased by the Columbus Red Birds late last season, was still a holdout today, although he and President Larry MacPhail are expected to get together tomorrow when the president arrives here for a conference.

When questioned in regard to his contract, Lebourveau said he expected to sign at the salary offered, but declared, "I expected to take a cut of $100 a month this season but the slice given me was too much. MacPhail has permitted me to dicker for a sale equivalent of that amount in return. If I am worth the same amount now that the club paid for me last season, I certainly am not entitled to take the large cut they are attempting to give me."

The holdout will not be allowed to participate in the practice sessions until he signs on the dotted lines.

In the eastern section Zanesville had easier sledding and downed New Philadelphia, 41 to 23. Sugar Creek likewise took things in stride by beating St. John's of Bellaire, 33 to 26.

Pomeroy, the dark horse of the southeast, galloped to renown by drubbing Greenfield McClain, 27 to 12. The winners previously had turned back Chillicothe which eliminated Portsmouth, last year's champions, from the running on Friday night. On the basis of this, Pomeroy has entered the "dreaded" class. Stewart, cuffed New Boston, 25 to 21 in the class "B" play.

Dayton Stivers, who fell down in 1931 after fathering the championship several years, returned to the fold by beating Springfield, 22 to 18, in the southwest division. Fairmount of Dayton knocked off Lawrenceville, 23 to 22 to make the triumph an entire city affair.

In the northeast, Akron East upset the dope bucket and dropped the heretofore unbeaten Alliance dribblers, 34 to 29. Akron West had a close call, with St. Vincent's of the same city, but eked out a 20 to 19 decision. Although Garrettsville turned back Canton North, 34 to 25, both will play at Columbus.

Ashland dribbled through to a 22 to 23 decision over Fremont while Defiance downed Toledo Scott, 23 to 17 in the Northwest. In the "B" class Rossford beat Dunkirk, 29 to 24, and Castalia Margaretta nosed out Norwalk 18 to 17 in an overtime period.

COLUMBUS, O., March 14.—The official stamp of Ohio today was placed upon the annual State high school basketball tournament by Governor George White who was to draw contestants for the games. These pairings will specify the opposing teams and the time for each game.

ANOTHER ATTACK STIRS HONOLULU

HONOLULU, T. H., March 14.—Choked almost into insensibility and attacked, Bernice Lum, 17, a Chinese girl, was in serious condition today while a native, Joseph Young, 22, whom she identified as her assailant, was held, facing the death penalty or life imprisonment.

The third criminal attack case in three weeks stirred Honolulu anew. John Fernandez, 21, two weeks ago was sentenced to a life term in prison for attacking a young Japanese girl. Mrs. Kathleen Hope, wife of a U. S. navy machinist's mate, was attacked in her home Feb. 27.

RECIPROCITY

No city so situated as Circleville, in one of the very best agricultural counties in the United States, can ever hope to be more prosperous than the farming community surrounding it. Put money in the farmer's pocket and he is the best spender on earth. This is undoubtedly the shortest road to prosperity.

At present prices, dairy products are the most economical food that can be purchased. No other food at the price of a bottle of milk or a pound of butter contains the food elements so essential to the health and growth of both adults and children. There are no substitutes for dairy products.

Gold Bar butter is churned fresh daily from the finest of milk and cream produced on the farms of Pickaway county and is the only butter manufactured in the county.

MUHLENBERG-TWP SCHOOL NEWS

The next regular meeting of the Muhlenberg P. T. A. will be held in the school auditorium Thursday night, March 10th. The program will be presented by Miss Beatty's room, the 5th and 6th grade. The last chapel program was given two weeks ago by the 7th and 8th grades. As that morning was Washington's birthday our program was to the memory of George Washington.

The Fifth edition of our school paper was issued last week. The next edition will probably be the last for this school year.

Miss Lettie Pollard has been selected to represent our school in the annual oratorical contest for this year which will be held at Darby-two school.

Last Thursday night was sport night at our school. We had three volleyball games, and two basketball games. The 7th and 8th grade girls played the H. S. girls and won by a score of 6 to 9. The Senior boys Floyd Bugner, Weldon Hill, Eldon Neff, Frances Dean and William McFinney played all the other H. S. and 7th and 8th grade boys and won by two points.

Our 3rd and 4th grade teacher, Miss Dorothy Hill, is carrying on some project work for her girls and boys in a vacant room that before had been used as a play room.

Miss Lois Beatty our 5th and 6th grade teacher was absent one day last week because of sickness. Miss Dorothy Hill, our 3rd and 4th grade teacher was absent 1-4 of a day last week because of illness. Miss Carpenter first and second grade teacher was also absent two days because of illness.

Our high school spelling class is progressing very nicely and we hope will prove to be a very beneficial project for the development of better spellers. One full forty-five minute period is given to this work each day.

Our attendance has been very good for the past week. For awhile it was very difficult to make a good record in attendance because there was so much illness.

Wheat Relief

UNEMPLOYMENT is helping the federal farm board out of a jam by providing an opportunity for ridding itself of some 40,000, 000 bushels of surplus grain, which it purchased in an unsuccessful attempt to force up farm prices and has been trying desperately ever since to get rid of without driving down those prices or stealing the farmer's market by selling the grain at a loss.

Under a senate plan approved by the board some 40,000,000 bushels will be given to the Red Cross for unemployment relief. Those bushels represent an outlay of $40,000,000 in public funds, but if dumped on the present market would bring only $15,000,000 in round figures. The jobless and their families have a real need for this wheat, and the government would gain nothing by withholding it for storage charges are mounting and there are no prospects of the deficient crops that would permit dumping it on the market without affecting the market.

While the government in this way will make a real contribution to unemployment relief, it would be a futile one but for an equal donation by the Red Cross. It will cost the Red Cross as much to mill the grain, bake the bread and distribute it as the grain would bring on the present market, which puts upon the Red Cross the responsibility of raising $15,000,000.

It would not be necessary to bake all the flour into bread before distribution among the jobless and penniless, for among them are many wives and mothers to whom bread making is not a lost art and who are ingenious enough in the kitchen to sustain their families out of the flour barrel without keeping it on a strictly bread diet.

Stability Returns

BANK failures averaged six a day during 1931. Since February 17, of this year, there have been only one national bank failure. That ought to be proof that since the reconstruction finance program went into effect the country has reacted strongly toward confidence.

February bank closings were but a third of the January total and the fewest since last July. Moreover, seven banks that had been closed reopened last month.

Another indication of a financial inclination in the right direction is the return to circulation in the last few weeks of $150,000,000 of new money. That means idle dollars in that amount have returned to work, and money cannot work without providing business and employment.

These are the hoped-for effects of the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, if the Glass-Steagall measure and the other steps taken by congress, the administration and business to end the depression and stagnated finances.

Business seems to be on the up-grade, hoarding has been checked and credit has been strengthened. Let the good work go on, and let none rest on their oars. The momentum given the train of prosperity must not be lost at any cost, nor will it be lost if the government and the financiers and business continue applying themselves to the task to which they have set themselves.

Sales Tax

THE two-and-a-quarter per cent sales tax approved by the house ways and means committee, an approval that is virtually equivalent to passage by congress, has a number of things to recommend it to the lawmakers. Whether it wins the favor of the taxpayers remains to be seen.

This levy is expected to meet the nation's need for a revenue source less unstable than the income tax has proved to be. It is in line with the repeated urging of the treasury that the income tax is an unreliable source and should be supplemented by a more stable producer of revenue.

Advocates of the sales tax believe that trial will prove it a more popular levy than the income tax with everybody but the income-tax exempt, a large percentage of whom may console themselves with the knowledge that their exemption from the tax is due to the grace of the sales tax. The qualities of the sales tax which make for popularity compared with other taxes are its equal distribution among all consumers, its low rate and the indirect method of collecting it. Like the gasoline tax it is quickly forgotten by the consumer.

If the experiment with the sales tax is successful, the importance of the federal income tax is likely further to diminish, possibly to disappear.

The Texas speaker of the house hasn't broken a gravel since the folks back home have been sending paper shell pecans.

Wheat Relief

UNEMPLOYMENT is helping the federal farm board out of a jam by providing an opportunity for ridding itself of some 40,000, 000 bushels of surplus grain which it purchased in an unsuccessful attempt to force up farm prices and has been trying desperately ever since to get rid of without driving down those prices or stealing the farmer's margins by setting the farmer's margins.

Under a senate plan approved by the board some 40,000,000 bushels will be given to the Red Cross for unemployment relief. Those bushels represent an outlay of $40,000,000 in public funds, but if dumped on the present market would bring only $15,000,000 in round figures. The jobless and their families have a real need for this wheat, and the government would gain nothing by withholding it for storage charges are mounting and there are no prospects of the deficient crops that would permit dumping it on the market without affecting the market.

While the government in this way will make a real contribution to unemployment relief, it would be a futile one but for an equal donation by the Red Cross. It will cost the Red Cross as much to mill the grain, bake the bread and distribute it as the grain would bring on the present market. The responsibility of raising $15,000,000.

It would not be necessary to bake all the flour into bread before distribution among the jobless and penniless, for among them are many wives and mothers to whom bread making is not a lost art and who are ingenious enough in the kitchen to sustain their families out of the flour barrel without keeping it on a strictly bread diet.

Stability Returns

BANK failures averaged six a day during 1931. Since February 17, of this year, there has been only one national bank failure. That ought to be proof that since the reconstruction finance program went into effect the country has reacted strongly toward confidence.

February bank closings were but a third of the January total and the fewest since last July. Moreover, seven banks that had been closed reopened last month.

Another indication of a financial inclination in the right direction is the return to circulation in the last few weeks of $150,000,000 of hoarded money. That amount in idle dollars in that amount have returned to work, and money cannot work without providing business and employment.

These are the hoped-for effects of the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, of the Glass-Steagall measure and the other steps taken by congress, the administration and business to end the depression and stagnated finances.

Business seems to be on the up-grade, hoarding has been checked and credit has been strengthened. Let the good work go on, and let the rest of the year be a success. The momentum given the train of prosperity must not be lost at any cost, nor will it be lost if the government, the financiers and business continue applying themselves to the task to which they have set themselves.

Sales Tax

THE two-and-a-quarter per cent sales tax approved by the house way and means committee an approval that is virtually equivalent to passage by congress has a number of things to recommend it to the lawmakers. Whether it wins the favor of the taxpayers remains to be seen.

This levy is expected to meet the nation's need for a revenue source less unstable than the income tax has proved to be. It is in line with the repeated urging of the treasury that the income tax is an undesirable source and should be supplemented by a more stable producer of revenue.

In Advocate of the sales tax believe that trial will prove it a more popular levy than the income tax with everybody but the income-tax exempt, a large percentage of whom may console themselves with the knowledge that their exemption will be continued by the grace of the sales tax. The qualities of the sales tax which make for popularity (compared with other taxes) are its equal distribution among all consumers, its low rate and the indirect method of collecting it. Like the gasoline tax it is quickly forgotten by the consumer.

If the experiment with the sales tax is successful, the importance of the federal income tax is likely further to diminish, possibly to disappear.

The Texas speaker of the house hasn't broken a gravel since the folks back home have been sending paper shell pecans.

The GAY BANDIT of the BORDER

by TOM GILL

SYNOPSIS

The Mexican peons, grown tired of Paco Morales' oppression, await the word from "El Coyote," their masked protector, to overthrow him. Morales has enlisted the aid of the U. S. Cavalry to capture the notorious bandit. Ted Radcliffe, a young American, learns that Morales was responsible for his late father's ruin. Bob Harkness, Ted's friend, urges him not to make an enemy of Morales, as he has other plans. Ted is enamored of Morales' beautiful niece, Adela. At a fiesta, Jito, Morales' ward, jealous of Ted, challenges him to a wrestling match. Ted wins, and Adela, sensing Jito's hatred, exacts a promise from Ted never to fight with him. Morales informs Bob that his men will join in the search for "El Coyote" and that Jito has dedicated himself to kill the bandit. Adela tells Ted he must not let his lack of wealth keep him from love. Bob receives a note and leaves the merrymaking. Shortly after, news is received that Jito's vaqueros are raiding the village. When Morales refuses to interfere, Adela leaves in her car. Ted and Morales go, too.

CHAPTER XXI

Straight into the crowd Adela drove the car. Horses and men leaped wildly aside as she threw on the brakes, almost in the center of the vaqueros. Ted leaned forward. Hemmed in by shouting horsemen, an old man stood, bound with leather thongs, and directly beside him a young vaquero held a girl in his arms. Helplessly she struggled there. Her blouse, caught in his fingers, had ripped, exposing her breasts. Laughing, the vaquero held her high up to the delight of his fellows.

"Por Dios," he called, "what a morsel, this little pigeon! I could eat her in one bite." And he pretended to close his teeth on her shoulder.

The girl's head had fallen back, her eyes were closed. The old man moaned feebly.

Ted gathered himself to jump, but Adela had already leaped from the car, and, snatching the quilt from the hands of a rider, lashed it full in the vaquero's face with all her might. Dropping the girl, the Mexican turned savagely, while a white scar stood out across his cheek. Once more the quilt bit deep into his skin. He raised his clenched fist, then, seeing Adela Morales, started back and snatched the sombrero from his head.

"Señorita," he began. "You damned dog!" Once more she lashed the quilt into his dark face, then hurled it at his feet. "You drunken, cowardly cur! Out of here, you and all your blood pack."

Before her white fury the dismayed crowd pushed back. Adela knelt and gathered the girl in her arms. Ted still stood on the running-board, ready to strike if the need came. His hands were clenched, but the vaquero, like a beaten dog, crept into the crowd. The sobbing girl hid her face in Adela's arms.

From the outer fringe of the crowd came the sound of renewed shouting, and the galloping of horses. Triumphant the vaqueros raised their hats in greeting. Jito, their leader, had arrived. Who now would come between them and their just loot? Jumping from his horse the big Mexican shouldered his way to the little group. He had eyes for none but Adela, and at her he frowned.

"Why are you here? You ought not to be here among these people." He turned to Morales. "Señor, why do you let her come out on a night of fiesta?"

"Why do you dogs come among these people on fiesta?" the girl demanded, and Jito stepped back a pace before the hot anger of her eyes. The contemptuous voice went on. "Your damned wolf pack must have blood, always blood, from these peaceful people. Each year it is the same. Always the same tale of rape and terror and drunken raids along the border towns, and always a shrug of the shoulders. It is just Jito's boys at their pleasure." She raised her clenched fist. "I hope to the Mother of God some day El Coyote seeks you out and finds you at your play. Your cries will have a different tone. You will taste a different sport from tearing clothes from unconscious girls and striking down men already tottering with age. Is there no other way to show your bravery than here at peaceful ranches? Last month at Agua Dulce—yes, I heard about that too, and what you did at Tierra Brega, when your pack went blind mad because the people of the village had fenced in their farm land. You are a brave man, Jito, and a leader of brave men, and some day I hope to God I shall see you all fawning at the feet of El Coyote for that rotten life of yours."

"Por Dios," he called, "what a morsel, this little pigeon! I could eat her in one bite."

"She would have said more, but Morales placed his hand over her mouth. "Not another word," he said. "I will not have it."

With the strength of anger she struck her uncle's hand aside. "Tell him you will not have his cruelty or cowardice. Tell him! Do you remember two years ago, when your vaqueros raided the village? That was sport too, wasn't it? And do you remember the girl who never became quite sane after those ruffians of yours and Jito's had their way?"

A sob caught the girl. "Be very glad I have not my way tonight, or some of these merry-makers would die."

Jito raised his huge hands—tears of pent-up anger stood in his eyes. "If a man had spoken to me as you have, he would have died." His only answer was the girl's disdainful laugh.

Jito turned to Morales. "I come here tonight to deal out justice to one who defies your rights. This is no time for the interference of women." Steadily Morales looked at Adela. "She will not interfere. I forbid it. But let your justice be brief."

Jito gave his vaqueros an order, and in the instant they brought the bent old man before him.

His faded blue overalls were tattered at the edges. The shoes upon his feet were cut and worn. He looked up fearfully at the towering vaquero.

"For the love of God, señor," his thin, high voice began, "what do you want of me? I have nothing here. I am poor."

Jito smiled thinly. "And you will be many times poorer before the night is finished." He rolled a cigarette. "Two months ago, Felipe Dominguez, I told you to leave this country. I told you we would not tolerate your presence here in the midst of our range."

"But I own these five acres. I have my papers." The voice trembled. "Papers, you peon dog. What are papers to us? Are we clerks and schoolboys that you talk of papers?"

"But, señor," the voice had taken on a puzzled tone. "I own this land."

"Now, by the cross, you own nothing here except through the tolerance of Paco Morales. You all know that. He tolerates you. By his favor he lets you live, and when he chooses to raise a finger and say go, it is better that you go, or that you had never been born. You know all this is true, yet you thought—God alone knows what you thought—Perhaps you thought that El Coyote would protect you. Men tell me that this bandit has promised to protect all of you. Well, he makes poor success of it tonight, eh, amigo? But let that pass. You have been warned to go. One month ago I warned you to go. You said nothing. You did nothing."

"I asked for time," the thin old voice replied. "I asked only to stay until after harvest. It would ruin me to leave my home before harvest."

"It will ruin you in any case, old one," Jito puffed slowly at his cigarette. The flames roared higher, gleaming on the vaquero's bridle and polished conchas, casting long shadows out toward the black night about them. Beyond lay the village in absolute quiet. Morales had laid his long arms about Adela. Beside her Ted stood, grimly alert.

Fresh Air Is Essential to Health

Faulty Ventilation Frequently the Cause of Colds and "Flu"; Open Windows Ward Off Disease.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

MANY people still believe that cold air is detrimental to health. They are faithful to the old notion that "flu" and pneumonia are caused by cold air.

This is a foolish attitude of mind. These diseases, as well as the common cold, are rarely, if ever, caused by cold air. They are more often caused by a lack of fresh air.

I can never understand why people show so little interest in the air they breathe. Fresh air is necessary for good health. It stimulates appetite, aids digestion, builds up the nervous system and increases the resistance of the body against certain diseases. Sleeping with open windows makes up for much bad air that is breathed during the daytime.

Air that is not fresh is spoken of as "stagnant air," or air without life. Such air is produced when a room is not properly ventilated and the same air is breathed over and over for a long period of time.

Headache, dizziness, nausea, vomiting and even collapse may result from breathing such air. Continued breathing of stale air causes digestive disorders. It lowers the body vitality and weakens resistance to infectious diseases, such as tuberculosis, pneumonia and the common cold.

I believe that all of us would be healthier and freer from colds if we could accustom ourselves to cold air. Most of us breathe too warmly and live in overheated homes. The windows are rarely opened in cold weather. Many sleep with windows tightly shut, and wonder why they awaken with headaches and head colds.

The problem of ventilation is a simple one. All that is necessary is to furnish a continuous stream of fresh air. Window ventilation is the most practical. Windows should be opened from top and bottom, and the doors should be kept slightly ajar. The temperature of the room should be between 65 and 72 degrees Fahrenheit. A thermometer should be in every home in order to regulate the temperature with some degree of certainty.

Heating and ventilation must be considered together. Most homes are overheated, with an excess of dry air. Dry air causes dryness of the skin and damages the lining of the nose and throat, thus preparing the way for colds and sore throats. Dry air can be prevented by allowing water to be evaporated over the heater.

A house that is poorly ventilated will harbor disease. Proper ventilation insures good health, and its advantages must not be overlooked.

Answers to Health Queries

B. M.—How much should a girl of 15, 5 ft. 4 in. tall, weigh?
2.—What will make the hair grow?

A.—She should weigh about 120 pounds. This is about the average weight for this age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

2.—Brush the hair daily and use a good tonic. Send self addressed stamped envelope for further particulars and request your query answered.

L. H. Q.—What should a young man of 22, 5 feet 11 1/2 inches tall, weigh?
3.—How can he overcome low blood pressure and gain 20 pounds?

A.—He should weigh about 156 pounds. This would be about average for his age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of cases.

2.—Building up his general health should be of general benefit under the circumstances. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

BOY GOT HIS NUMBER
MALDEN, Mass.—When Frank Munroe, a Medford boy, was run down by an automobile, his sled was crashed and the motorist continued on his way without stopping. The lad said in the district court that he traced the registration numbers in the snow. As a result Diran H. Berberian, of Watertown, was fined $25 after being found guilty of a charge of driving away from the scene of an accident without reporting.

CONTINENTAL ARMY DRUM
JACKSON, Mich.—A drum carried and used by Continental army soldiers during the Revolutionary War is owned by Arthur Curtis of this city, and will be used in a "life and drum" trial during a Washington Bicentennial celebration. The drum and its original sticks were brought to Michigan almost a hundred years ago by ox-cart and came into Curtis' possession about 15 years ago.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Of 2450 younger girls in motion pictures, 1540 are blondes, 900 brunettes and only twenty redheads, according to the Paramount studio casting director Fred Datig.

Wynne Gibson, who is supporting brunette Sylvia Sydney in "Ladies of the Big House," is one of the only three redheads under contract of Paramount. The others are Nancy Carroll and Peggy Shannon.

Miss Gibson has an important role in Paramount's picture drama portraying life in a woman's prison. "Ladies of the Big House," the feature now being shown at the Cliftona theatre, is much more than a story of prison life. It is a gripping drama of love and romance in which the episodes of a full life bring Sylvia Sydney and Gene Raymond into conflict with the law.

AT THE GRAND

Grand Theater this week: A brand new show at the Grand Theater which carries the title of "The Million Dollar Baby Co., which is headed by 'Blackie Blackburn' a Blackface Comedian of unusual talent and puts life into his plays and never a dull moment is allowed from the rise to the drop of the curtain. We wish to state this company comes to Circleville very well recommended and from reports from the towns that this company has played we will have the pleasure of seeing one of the best shows on the road today, they have many vaudeville features and surprises for our patrons this week.

"She Got What She Wanted" is at the Grand Theater with the reputation of being one of those rare comedies that panic you with laughter because it is so absurd. The dead seriousness of the players in the utterly absurd situations make the picture one of those funny things that can't be described but can be enjoyed.

This James Cruze Production is taken from the stage play of the same name by George Rosener. It enjoyed a great New York success. Betty Compton heads a cast including Lee Tracy, Alan Hale, Gaston Glass, Dorothy Christy and Fred Kelsey.

PICKAWAY SCHOOLS

Mr. Bradley took his livestock judging team to Ohio State University last Saturday where it placed eight among nineteen teams. Dairy and beef cattle, swine, sheep and horses were judged. John Miller made the highest individual score. Howard Carroll, Lawrence Wolford, Charles Kressel, Clarence Miller, Henry Seymour and Harold Anderson were the other members on the agriculture class who participated in this work. Mr. McFee took the boys in his school bus.

This team was competing in stock judging. Mr. Meyer and Mr. Vanzant had our basketball team in the tournament at Westerville. We successfully passed the first hurdle when we defeated Morral 24 to 18 in one of the most decisive scores of the entire tournament. In the second game it looked like we were going straight through for another decisive victory when the half ended 19 to 7 in our favor. But this one sided score gave us too much confidence and Toboso came back with a vengeance to nose us out by a single point in the last minute of the game final score 26 to 25. This squad was transported by Mr. Hall.

Our basketball season will be terminated with the annual class tournament Friday evening. 11 of our followers are invited to this last evening of basketball.

Mrs. Otto C. Meyer is substituting for Mr. Althaus in our commercial department this week. Mr. Althaus is ill.

A special assembly of the upper grades and high school students was held Wednesday morning to hear Mr. Stanley Lewis and Mr. John Harvey discuss the advantages of 4-H club work. We hope a large number of boys and girls will enroll and secure the great benefits to be derived from participation in the activities of this organization. 4-H Clubs, like Boy Scouts, Girls Scouts, Hi-Y etc., are doing great things for the boys and girls. Better citizens will be the result. We urge all parents to cooperate in this work by encouraging the boys and girls in every way possible. The 4-H leaders devote much time and energy to the work, and they do it not for personal gain but because they wish to be of service to the youth of the community. This service is yours if you want it, but it will not be forced upon you. It is your privilege to take it or leave it, but we hope you will consider the best interests of yourselves and your children when you make your decision.

No work has been done on our cinder track this week, but plans for this work are being completed and hope to start the excavating very soon. Our biggest problem is arranging for the transportation of the cinders. It looks like we will need a great deal of volunteer hauling if we are to be able to complete this project. All citizens who will help are requested to report to one of the board members, to Mr. Meyer, or to Mr. Seitz. The cinders will come from Circleville and Groveport. We need about 75 cubic yards. The foundation will be of about 150 cubic yards of the old Scioto Valley road bed. Let us know if you will help.

Commercial Bodies
Chambers of commerce originated on the continent of Europe with the disintegration of the old guild system. The first chamber of commerce on record is that of Marseilles, France, which grew out of a committee of merchants established in 1590. The movement spread to the United States, where the first chamber of commerce, that of New York city, was organized in 1793.

The Daily Horoscope

Monday, March 14, 1932

The major interest of people today would tend to revolve about money matters. And the signs point to plenty of difficulty for folks who lay undue emphasis upon material possessions.

Bankers and brokers should find the early morning hours profitable and are likely to have an increase of business. The morning papers may hold some beneficial news concerning banking and investment matters.

There is danger of emotional extremes later in the morning, and it would then be an easy matter to give way to temper and excessive feeling.

Not a good time for dealing with machinery, hardware, chemicals or tools. Destruction and damage are likely to come into prominence.

In the afternoon things may not run smoothly for those in the building trades, and a tendency to gloom and worry is shown.

LINDBERGH

rest suspicion as a direct answer might have a tendency to obstruct any police activities now in progress.

Rumors which persisted that Salvatore Spitalo and Irving Bitz, named as "go-betweens" by the Lindberghs, planned to leave today for Detroit by airplane were without official confirmation.

Some importance was attached to the reports because members of the "Purple Gang" of Detroit frequently were mentioned as likely to have knowledge of the kidnapping. Spitalo and Bitz recently publicly announced they expected to fly to the Mid-western city.

Many clues investigated in the past 24 hours merely added to the growing list which on examination proved false.

FOUR ARRESTED

Four persons were detained in Tennessee because they had with them a baby resembling the Lindbergh infant, but after consultation with the Lindberghs, it was definitely established the child was not the missing baby.

Incidentally, this resulted in the revelation that some definite identifying characteristic of the Lindbergh baby was not made public in the description of the child broadcast through the country.

"It is felt," Schwarzkopf, in his latest regular bulletin declared, "that the giving out of additional characteristics and identifications of the missing baby would not be of any advantage as the concealment of the information gives the family an opportunity to cross examine any one reported to have found the baby."

"The concealment of some distinctive means of identification saves the family much inconvenience and trouble and will tend to hasten identification of the child."

ODD STORY TOLD

One of the oddest episodes reported since the abduction was still under investigation today at York, Pa.

Dr. M. B. Shellenberger, osteopath, said a man with a submachine gun entered his office, demanded and received a treatment. The patient then forced the doctor to accompany him to the waiting room, where a woman and baby sat.

"Do you recognize that baby?", the man asked Shellenberger. When the latter looked non-plussed, the man said:

"It's the Lindbergh Baby."

Shellenberger declared the man gave him a note addressed to Lindbergh. It demanded $100,000 ransom after which the baby would be delivered today or tomorrow at Bedford, Pa.

The woman and baby left while the man kept the doctor covered with his weapon.

Another unusual angle as supplied by Calvin Petty, of Kingston, about five miles from Hopewell.

He said he was approached by a stranger near his home Saturday night.

"You don't know me and I don't know you," he quoted the man as saying.

"How much would you ask to take the Lindbergh baby back to his home?"

Petty mentioned $20,000 for the service. The stranger, however, declared he would return with 100 $1 bills probably tonight.

Henry F. Myers and Frank O. Spurdie who live near Stroutsburg, in the Sourland mountains, told state troopers they saw four "tough-looking men" drive past their farms on Sunday, through a brook and up a small dirt road into the woods.

They saw the car stop in the woods, from which two men emerged to whom the men in the car gave a bundle. The men on foot quickly disappeared, while the car dashed off along the highway.

Police were inclined to suspect some rum running activity rather than a possible link in the kidnapping in this incident.

ing the talk to less controversial subjects asserted the present session of Congress is the busiest he has had in his nine years as a representative from this district.

declared the balancing of the national budget is the greatest problem of today, and criticized President Hoover for being a year late on his relief measures.

RELATES PLATFORM

His platform for the impending campaign, Underwood said, will be his "nine-year congressional record of faithful and non-partisan service to all the people."

The major achievements of the present session, Underwood declared, have been the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (which was created a year too late, he said, and has failed to live up to expectations) the lame duck amendment, the banking bill and the anti-injunction bill.

He said he was not in favor of Uncle Sam playing Santa Claus to Europe, in explaining his vote against the moratorium, and stated: "I know things are bad enough in Europe, but we have $5,000,000 idle in this country. In my county (Perry) there are 1,000 destitute people."

Not stopping to offer any solution to the problem though explaining that he believed capital had an octopus-like hold on the country, Underwood said Congress has gone the president a step better in every government economy, and declared he opposed the idea of a sales tax as has been advanced as a means of balancing the budget. He said he would vote for a sales tax only as a last resort and after all other means of revenue had failed.

4346 IN SCHOOLS

Supt. Buchanan notified those present that there were 4,346 boys and girls in the county school district.

After a discussion which lasted throughout the morning the group agreed by vote to allow the county superintendent to prepare a fixed county teachers' salaries schedule based on experience, training and the number of pupils in the school.

Approximately 82 persons attended the morning session and 75 returned for the afternoon confab at which time seven other school problems were informally discussed.

QUESTIONS ASKED

The first question talked of at the beginning of the afternoon session was "What type of security does the law provide to boards of education that have depositories?"

After much discussion it was agreed that all boards should have a firm security, 50 percent is preferable. This protects the money being used for school purposes.

Other discussions brought out the following information and opinions of those present:

A clerk-treasurer of the board does not need have a large bond because he doesn't handle much money. The depository secures it.

The 6-6 plan in the elementary grades and the high school is preferable to the 8-4 plan because it departmentalizes work, off sets dropping out of pupils at the completion of the eighth grade and offers specialized training for the teachers. This was discussed at length by Supt. Rhude of New Holland.

Supt. Buchanan recommended to boards that any subject taught in the schools that doesn't offer a social value be taken out of the curriculum.

The legal time to employ teachers is within four months before the contracts begin. A superintendent may be employed at the first school board meeting after Jan. 1. The local and county superintendents should be present at the employment of teachers.

The chief objection to the state retirement system appeared to be: "Why pension the teachers and not the farmers?" It was explained that the retirement system was not for the teachers alone but of the school. "It stabilizes the profession and keeps in a better class of teachers," remarked L. E. Seitz, superintendent of Pickaway-Twp. school. Samuel Lindsay, of this city, who is now gaining the benefits of the system, by his retirement from teaching spoke favorably of the retirement fund.

The group responded favorably to the question: "What do you think of the new proposed tax law as offered by the Ohio Education Association and other interests, of a 4.85 mill levy for the operation of schools?" This plan will build up a state aid fund which will be kept in reserve. If in operation today it would alleviate discontent, according to Supt. Buchanan.

Mr. Buchanan was well pleased with the group meeting.

ing the talk to less controversial subjects asserted the present session of Congress is the busiest he has had in his nine years as a representative from this district.

declared the balancing of the national budget is the greatest problem of today, and criticized President Hoover for being a year late on his relief measures.

RELATES PLATFORM
His platform for the impending campaign, Underwood said, will be his "nine-year congressional record of faithful and non-partisan service to all the people."

The major achievements of the present session, Underwood declared, have been the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (which was created a year too late, he said, and has failed to live up to expectations) the lame duck amendment, the banking bill and the anti-injunction bill.

He said he was not in favor of Uncle Sam playing Santa Claus to Europe, in explaining his vote against the moratorium, and stated: "I know things are bad enough in Europe, but we have 8,500,000 idle in this country. In my country (Ferry) there are 1,000 destitute people."

Not stopping to offer any solution to the problem though explaining that he believed capital had an octopus-like hold on the country, Underwood said Congress has gone the president a step better in every government economy, and declared he opposed the idea of a sales tax as has been advanced as a means of balancing the budget. He said he would vote for a sales tax only as a last resort and after all other means of revenue had failed.

Many business concerns need to start a courtesy campaign for their employees.

Prizes should be given to the most courteous employees.

Courtesy is a business getter. Then why not get more business?

Courtesy campaigns should be put on and include every one in this city.

For a city to be known as a courteous city is one of the greatest honors any city could have.

Courtesy brings happiness. Let's all be happy!
